

Newsletter January 14

Happy New Year! We hope you all had a good Christmas and are ready to start a fun filled half term.

On Friday 10th of January we will be celebrating our 3rd birthday in our new building. The children will be helping to cook a delicious birthday cake and we will play some party games to celebrate.

We have made some changes to our room layout and planning system over the holidays to keep the staff and children motivated with new challenges to achieve. As always we will keep you informed of what activities the children are undertaking (please see the notice boards in the lobby).

The Christmas party went really well and was a great way to finish the end of term. We had a special guest visit our grotto, it was lovely to see all their excited faces when he arrived covered in snow.

This half term we are re-visiting one of our favourite topics as we look at stories and books. This is an ideal opportunity for the children to act out their favourite stories and start on their own journey of storytelling. If your child has a favourite book that they would like to share with us then please feel free to bring it in to one of their sessions.

We said goodbye to Maria at the end of last term as she embarked on motherhood, we are pleased to announce that she had a baby girl called Florence over the Christmas holiday and both Mum and baby are doing well. We wish them well!

Due to Maria's departure Shelley will be taking over her hours, this has resulted in a few keyworker changes, please see the updated list in the lobby.

Reminder

Towards the end of last term we sent out a copy of our new late collection policy, please could we remind you that we will have to start charging anybody that is late picking up their children. This is to cover our own costs as we are staffed to cover our ratios and will need to pay staff if they are needed to remain on the premises if children are not collected. Thank you for your co-operation.

If anyone has any queries or suggestions please speak to a member of staff. Thank you for your continued support.
